I'm so disappointed in this game. It's not quite what I was hoping for, but I can tell he put a lot of effort in it. The trailer looks absolutely dope, I always wanted to try roam an open world as a cat. Honestly, probably be better as an open world battle royale. It would be pretty funny and cool. I really hope he can improve on this successful formula in Cat's Yarn 2.. Mouse doesn't stay locked into the game, jump inputs are constantly ignored and your cat simply sticks to the ground, easily ruining the climb all the way up a building due to you just falling off. Wall jumping is inconsistent and seems to be completely random when it chooses to work. Also all the yarn is annoyingly 2 inches off the ground so instead of walking through it you have to jump around with stiff controls until you get it. I hope they make the controls more fluid and consistent in the future. I was going to speedrun this game to gather all the collectibles but the controls are just too hard to deal with.. Short game, but very fun. Great little indie game with a cool low poly style. 10\/10 would be a cat again. Super cute game. lots of fun for just running around and exploring. Great game for just relaxing, Great game for the money.
